BASIS FOR REJECTIONS

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

- (a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.
- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- (e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

- (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS OVER PRIOR ART

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Baker (3,410,126). Figures 1 and 2 show two orthogonally positioned roller sets 15, 16, each roller set including at least two pairs of opposing rollers 45, 53. The rolls are driven by motor 17. The rolls are adjustable by threaded screws 66. Baker's tube straightening apparatus is directed to machines that have two groups of rolls where "one of the groups of rolls has the axes of the rolls horizontal while the other group of rolls has the axes of the rolls vertical so as to insure straightness of the tube or rod in two different planes. The last roll in each plane bends the material to its final degree of straightness." (Emphasis added, column 1, lines 26-31). As to claim 4, the resultant straightness of the tubing 65 will inherently facilitate "torsional applications". As to claim 5 and 6, the size of the roller relative to the work piece, i.e., tubing, is not definitive of the roller structure since the work piece forms no part of the roller. Clearly, the size of the roller as it relates to the tubing size is limited by the operator's selection. Since the last roll in each plane bend the tubing to its "final" straightness, the tubing is "fully yielded" in each of the planes.

Claim 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Redman (4,663,955) in view of Baker (3,410,126). Redman shows it to be conventional in the art to straighten tubing by feeding tubing from a coil C to two orthogonally positioned roller sets 14, 20. It would have been obvious to the skilled artisan at the time of the invention to have modified Redman's straightener's 14, 20 by arranging the roll sets so as to impart a final straightness to each plane of the tubing using the concepts taught by Baker so as to give the tubing its final straightness.

PRIOR ART CITED BY EXAMINER

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

RESPONSE BY APPLICANT(S)

Applicant(s) response to be fully responsive and to provide for a clear record must specifically point out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references, both those references applied in the objections and rejections and those references cited in view of the state of the art in accordance with 37 CFR 1.111 (a), (b) and (c).
